Dedication

To you who have made our college days happier because of your presence here, your cheery smile, and helping hand; to you who have given thirty years of your life to making our Alma Mater a better place for us; to you who have spread your influence over us all; we extend the highest honor within our power.

To our Dr. Edward Conradi, then, we dedicate the 1939 Flastacowo—truly our school is what this great man has made it.

Our school is but the lengthened shadow of . . . . .

Edward Conradi

Foreword

We have no set plan or theme for this year's annual — rather we are trying to give you a written and photographic portrayal of your Alma Mater as you see it. If the book in years to come — or even this summer — helps you to remember what you otherwise would forget, then our purpose has been accomplished, for it is truly your 1939 Flastacowo.

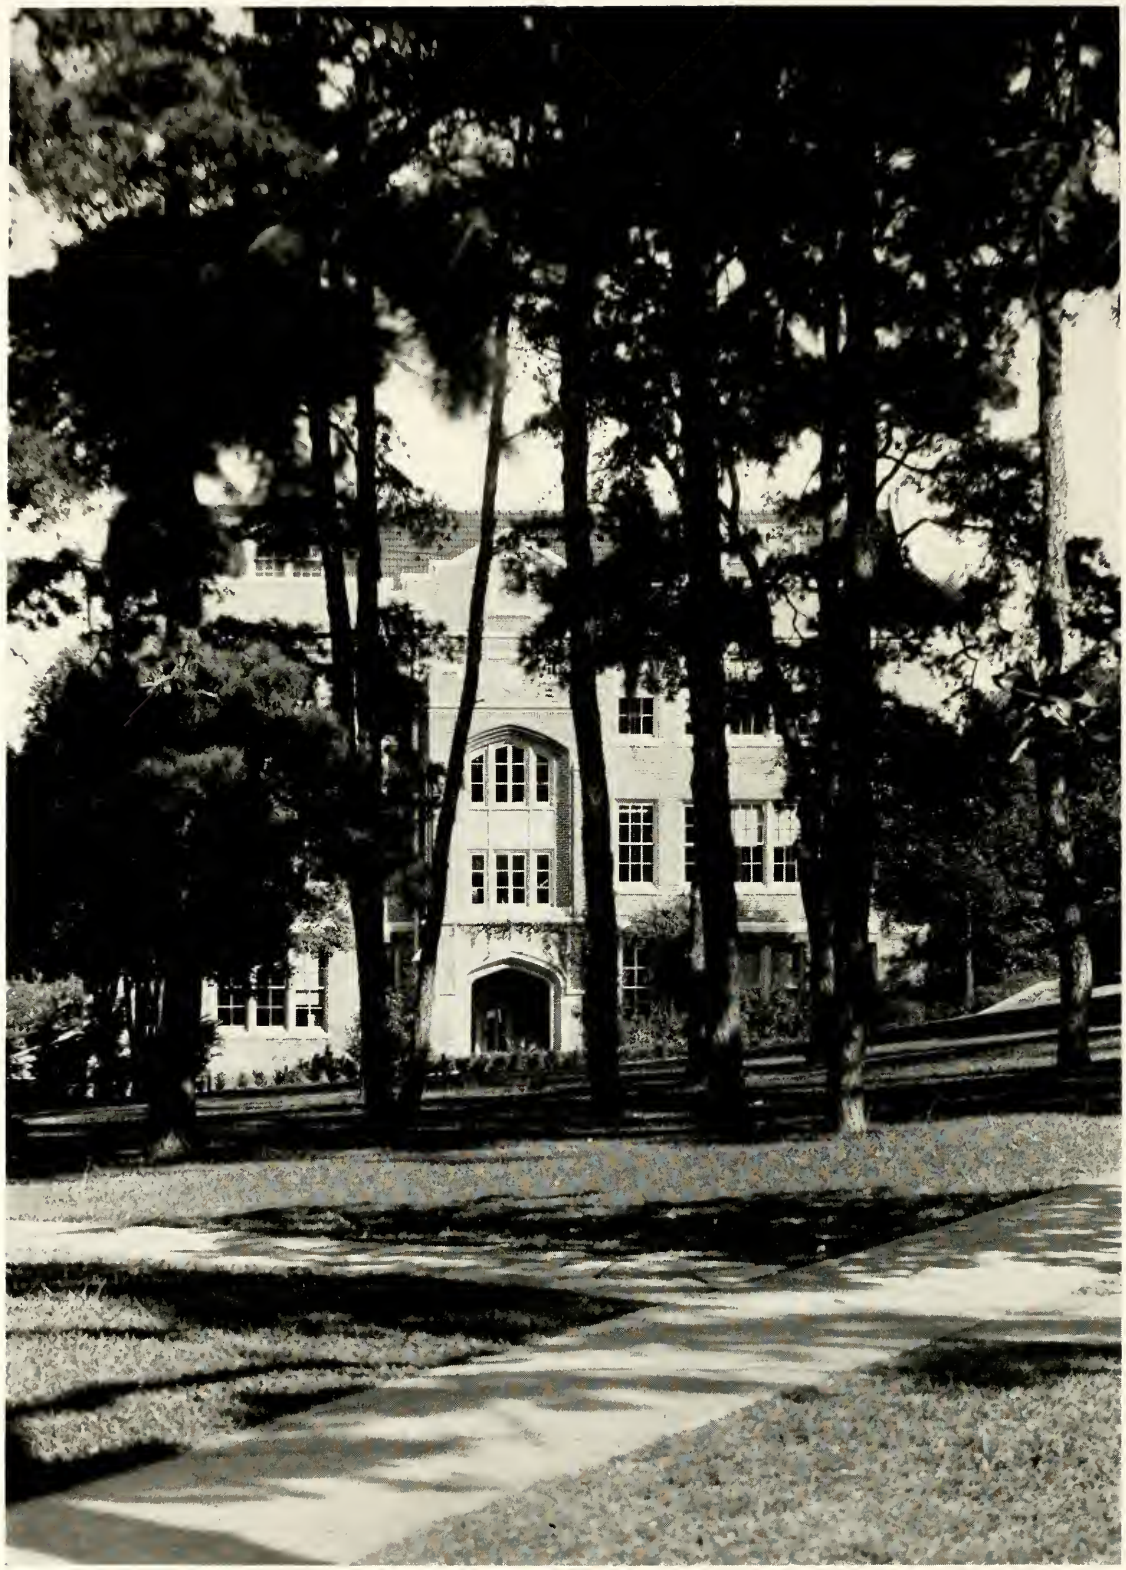
"The portals of knowledge" — swinging wide to welcome the greenest of freshmen — and opening again, more slowly — to bid farewell to departing seniors — typifying the best in us all.

Bunkers — the thud of arrows in the target — laughing voices — Robin Hoods in the making — beauty in oneness with nature.

Class rooms — vine covered walls — the tramp of feet — the shouting of cheery "hellos" — whistles — the home of many memories.

"The half of knowledge" — beauty and understanding — informed ignorance and true education — headaches and long hours — reseach — fun in learning.

Candles at dusk — soft voices singing — relaxation on the grass
— Mortified iniation — simple dignity — beauty.



Sunshine and shadows — green lawn and sturdy pines — day dreams and aspirations — coming nearer their realization.

Militant simplicity — lights burning late — midnight feasts — cheery fires in winter — center of activities — Bryan Hall.

May your four years in college have helped you to see with an ever clearer vision that the spiritual values are the real values of life, and that the great thinkers through the centuries in all human activities are real interpreters of the great creative processes of God in the life of the Spirit and of the cosmos, the understanding of which makes a richer, a more comfortable, and a more sacred life; and may this understanding always be an inspiring light along your pathway of life!

DEPARTMENT OF ART

The Department of Art endeavors to develop the appreciation of art and to train students to enter the fields of teaching, painting, commercial illustration, interior decoration, design, fashion illustration, and stage design.

Instructors in this department are: Beatrice Beyer Williams; Lillian Canfield; Mary Mooty; Helen Alverda Thrush.

DEPARTMENT OF BACTERIOLOGY

Once offered as a part of the Biology and Home Economics courses, Bacteriology is now an individual course. Instructors for this course are Alban Stewart and Mary Noka Hood.

DEPARTMENT OF BOTANY

Instructors in Botany attempt to point out how a knowledge of plants and flowers may be applied to life. Students are taught how to know a reasonable number of cultivated trees, shrubs and "flowers." Our students soon learn that not all growth under our feet is grass nor all ugly plants and weeds.

Instructors in this department are: Herman Kurz; Ruth Schornherst.

DEPARTMENT OF CHEMISTRY

The department of Chemistry gives to the students the essentials of courses in General, Analitical, Physical, Organic and Physiological chemistry. Graduate work and honors work is encouraged in this department and independent study is observed by some students. By its membership in the American Chemical Society the entire staff keeps in close touch with the recent advances of chemistry.

Instructors in this department are: Leland Judson Lewis; Isabel McKinnell; Jennie Tilt; Gertrude Vermillion.

DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICAL LANGUAGES AND LITERATURE

The Department of Classical Languages and Literatures has two objectives: to afford technical mastery of the Greek and Latin languages as an aid in the use of the English language, for the purpose of personal enjoyment, for skill in teaching, and for graduate studies; and to provide a thorough knowledge of the rich and varied cultures of these nations in the field of art, philosophy, literature, government and society as a background for understanding the word of today.

The instructors in this department are: Olivia Nelson Dorman; Ruth E. Fairman; Edith W. West.

The Demonstration School supplies students who are training to be teachers with a knowledge of classroom procedure. It gives them supervised classes to teach in order to supply them with practical knowledge.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

The Department of Economics and Commerce aims to give the student a knowledge of the social and economic development of society and a keener appreciation of the role of the cultural subjects as a necessary foundation upon which a broad vocational training is based. It is hoped that graduates from this department will be able to play a useful as well as an intelligent and enjoyable role in life.

Instructors in the department are: Beulah Bell Briley, Lucile Grider Bass; Inez Frink; William Harry Joubert; Royal Mattice; Mary Lonella Richey; Sadie Young.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The Department of Education is responsible for giving such courses of study as will best prepare kindergarten, primary, elementary school, junior high school, senior high school teachers, and supervisors for the various duties that will front them. The department purposes to give such professional training as will enable students to use to the greatest advantage in the profession of education all their training and experience.

Instructors in this department are: Ralph L. Eyman; Mark H. DeGraff; Dora S. Skipper; Marion Jewell Hay; Murphy Roy Hinson; Nita Pyburn; R. L. Goulding.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

The aims of the English department are: to develop in students clear thinking and effective expression through speaking and writing; to familiarize them with the cultural and spiritual ideals of English speaking people through the study of our literature; to instill in them the appreciation and beauty through the study and practice of arts of poetry and the drama.

Instructors in the Department are: William G. Dodd, Mary Bethell Alfriend; Martha Gertrude Chapman; Guy Linton Diffenbaugh; Mildred Fay Henry; Mary H. McKean; Lou E. W. Miller; William Hudson Rogers; Hazel A. Stevenson; Betty Blanding; Carmen Rogers.

DEPARTMENT OF GEOGRAPHY

The course in Geography is planned to carry out two chief functions; to furnish a major or minor in the subject in the College of Arts and Sciences and to give background courses for prospective teachers and students majoring in Economics.

Instructors in this department are: Henry F. Becker; Gladys Fawley; William Bugelli.

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

The study of History begins with a survey of western civilization; then courses are given covering significant periods of human activity or regions not primarily in the main course of Western Civilization. In the course the study of the South and a Florida history is emphasized.

Instructors in this department are: Katherine Trimmer Abbey, Robert S. Cotterill, Annie Marie Therese Poper; Venilia L. Shores.

DEPARTMENT OF HOME ECONOMICS

Home Economics contributes to the development of a fine art of living and provides opportunity for the intelligent study of such phases of home and family life as child rearing, human relationships, housing, nutrition, clothing, money management and other phases of daily existence in the home.

Instructors in this department are: Margaret R. Sandels; Clarine Belcher; Ruth Conner; Eleanor Green; Edna Mae McIntosh; Sara D. Meador; Jennie Tilt; Anna May Tracy; Leila Venable.

DEPARTMENT OF HYGIENE

The Department of Hygiene instructs students in matters of personal and public health that will aid them to live a more hygienic life in college and in a community.

Instructor in this department is Sarah Parker White.

DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Arts Department offers to students, preparing to teach, courses which will enable them to enrich their professional educational work through the knowledge and skill gained. Industrial Arts education, pottery, modelling, and sculpture, woodwork, weaving, metal craft, jewelry and leather craft are taught.

Instructors in this department are: Emily Pitman Wilburn; Oval S. Harrison; Bernice Deetz; Sallie Williams.

DEPARTMENT OF JOURNALISM

The Department of Journalism offers varied courses to students desiring to follow a career in the newspaper world. Styles and means of writing are sought through the observing of famed journalists and their work and through the reading of current metropolitan newspapers, books and articles.

Instructor in this department is Mr. Earl Vance.

LIBRARY SCIENCE

Courses in Library Science are planned to prepare students for positions as librarians of small high schools.

Instructors in this department are: Mrs. Pauline Richardson; Mrs. Katherine Weed.

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS

The Department of Mathematics has two purposes. Its intention is primarily to give students an adequate understanding of the fundamental mathematical truths and secondarily to develop logical application to problems in books and in life as well as speed and accuracy.

Instructors in this department are: Elmer Riggs Smith; Olga Larson.

DEPARTMENT OF MODERN LANGUAGES

A knowledge of the life and culture of France, Germany, Italy, Spain, and Spanish America is afforded by the courses given in the Modern Language Department. It leads to an appreciation of the values of various civilizations that have intimately affected our own development, and thus enables us to better understand ourselves.

Instructors in this department are: Arthur R. Seymour; Dorothy L. Breen; Margie Burks; Margaret V. Campbell; Madeline Postaire; Marie Davis, Myrtle Dolbee; Mildred Finnegan; Lucy Lester.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

Courses in piano, voice, violin, cello, public school music and composition are offered by the Music Department. It prepares its graduates for vocational objectives in these fields. Special attention is given to individual instruction as well as group work in the glee club, orchestra and ensemble. In order that students may enjoy this universal language, music appreciation courses and concerts are given.

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

Philosophy — Man's unceasing desire to discover meaning and value in life, to understand the world and find his own place in it, to make the most of himself without overestimating his individual importance.

Instructors in this department are: Anna Forbes Liddell and Robert Miller.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

The purpose of the Department of Physical Education, through its class and extra-curricular program, is to give to all students an opportunity to increase health and physical efficiency, to find joy and satisfaction in activity and at the same time to enrich their repertoire of recreational activities that their leisure time both in college and in later life will become a constructive factor in its contribution to more complete living.

Instructors in this department are: Katherine W. Montgomery; Mary B. Settle; Rebecca Averill; Claudia Moore; Grace Fox; Ruth Lehman, Marjorie Mayer, Felicia West.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

The Department of Physics offers a full program of undergraduate work. Subjects emphasized in the more advanced courses include electricity, light, heat, mechanics, radio, X-rays, radioactivity, photoelectricity, and the mathematical theory of physics. The Department is well equipped for lecture demonstrations and for individual work in the laboratories.

Instructors in this department are: Harold F. Richards; Elizabeth Lynn; William N. Barrows, Jr.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSIOLOGY

Courses in Physiology deal with the basic facts as applied to physical activity, human anatomy, and a survey of current journals for recent research. At present the department of Physiology and Anatomy is established in the Demonstration School. Two general courses in human physics and human anatomy, and two advanced courses are offered.

Instructor in the department: Viola Graham.

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Political science furthers training in citizenship which will assist students more efficiently and intelligently to assume their responsibility for obtaining the general will in the American democracy.

Instructors in this department are: Victoria Schuck; Eleanor F. Dolan.

DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY

The object of study in psychology is the child and the developing person. The courses offered center about some aspect of the individual: his enlarged behavior in a group and the life of the group itself; his maladjustments and their correction; his sphere of usefulness in adult life; his growth in meaning and in esthetic appreciation, and the final culmination of the personality into the significant man or woman.

Instructors in this department are: Paul F. Finner; Elizabeth Gordon Andrews; Louise Witmer; Hugh Lee Waskom; Dorthy Rose Disher; Christian Paul Heinlein; Christine B. Scarborough.

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY

The department of Sociology has two main purposes. The program of courses offered is intended to give a cultural influence and offers the fundamental understanding of group life which results in better citizenship. The second purpose of the courses prepares the students for Social Welfare Work.

Instructors in this department are: Raymond Bellamy; Margaret Cochran Bristol; Coyle Ellis Moore; Paul Walbert Shankweiler.

DEPARTMENT OF SPEECH

The aim of the Speech Department is to give training to those planning to work on the public platform as readers or lecturers, to students working to prepare for the teaching of Speech, to those preparing for a business life, and for purely cultural ends.

Instructors in this department are: Mary Hollingsworth Buford; Kemper Martin Moore; Sarah Elizabeth Thomson; Lulu Margaret Wyly.

DEPARTMENT OF ZOOLOGY

The aim of Zoology is to invite interest in the various phases of animal life, to give training in obtaining first hand information to students preparing for medicine, teaching, or as part of a general education. Chief emphasis is placed on freshman courses and the advanced courses in ornithology, compartive vertebrate zoology, parasitology, and embryology.

Instructors in this department are: Ezda May Deviney; Mildred Irene Boliek; Mary Noka Hood.

To you who have fostered the best in us for one to four years, who have guided us in successful group living, and have taught us that it is easier to keep rules than to break them, we owe our heartfelt thanks.

HONORING THE FACULTY

You have worked long and hard to give us knowledge, and all too often we have disappointed you. This is our loss, not yours, and we will regret it more as time goes on. But you have taught us much, in spite of our lethargy, and perhaps most of all, you have shown us the way to learn—the half of knowledge. You have given life to what has not lived for us before, and you have shown us a love of learning, perhaps even imbued some of us with the seed of this love. For these things, and for your friendship, we thank you, and we will remember you long after most of our classmates are forgotten.

Senior Class History

WE WERE a little bit awed, we must admit, back there in the fall of '35. There were a bewildering number of buildings, ivy-covered, and girls—total strangers. We walked around in our best dresses and wanted to go home.

But along came some upperclassmen and we decided that if they could we could; we put on our stiffest upperlip and took in Rush Week, and there we were with little ribbons and we were still bewildered. Some one said "Its Investiture tonight," and solemnly, to be in the spirit of the occasion we watched some girls walk down the aisle in the auditorium. We missed Pomp and Circumstance but someone said, "That comes at graduation, silly." At Torch night, somehow, in spite of our cheese-cloth tunics, we did feel a queer little thrill as we bore our torches to Alma Mater, singing. Fealty was a beautiful pageant, but even before our sister class, we knew that we had pledged ourselves to the Torches Three.

Then Demonstrations—ours was the best—and the games and red, white and purple, and turkey. This was our first Thanksgiving at school.

Class elections, and oh, the politicing we did—Christmas, and Home. To return to our first semester exams—by now, we really know our way around, and were glad to see Good Girls rewarded with Sophomore Council pins.

Coming back our Sophomore year we were pretty awfully sophisticated. Had our boy friend up for the hop! We felt a little queer, again, when we saw the new freshmen bringing us the torches; we were sort of sad at the sophomore-senior breakfast, because our big sisters were leaving us.

Our Junior year, we really didn't have time to feel at all, we were so busy. These events stand out—Odd Demonstration, Junior Minstrels, elections—and the Junior-Senior Prom!! Everybody took lunches out of the dining room and we danced there. Then Mortar Board tapping—"Tis the torch the people follow"—and everyone letting her hair down and wearing rompers at the kid party.

The Senior Year—funny, how soon it came—There was Dr. Conradi putting mortar boards on the remaining members of the freshman class of '35. Christmas and the Senior Christmas party, then down to Dr. Conradi's in February to wish him Happy Birthday. Then the Prom, sophomore-senior and alumnae breakfasts, May Day, Class Day, and the flash of white against black gowns as our Junior sisters walked proudly beside us. The solemnity of Baccalaureate service and then—Graduation. Pomp and Circumstance! A mixed sensation of relief and sadness.

As the sun slants through the high windows of the auditorium, our college life passes before our eyes. How different the school is now from the way we found it. We see new college generations coming on to take our places, as we go out to make room for them. But those we leave still here may be sure that we will remember and return.

RUTH EYMAN, Historian.

GARNET AND GOLD

Garnet and gold
And may we ever loyal be;
As in days of old
Thy daughters bore the torches three.
Femina Perfecta,
And at the top we'll always stand,
And Florida'll be
The very best in all the land!

Class Song

F.S.C. WE LOVE THEE
SADIE ANDERSON

Dear F.S.C. we love you,
Your hills and vineclad halls,
The knowledge you have brought us,
Within your red brick walls.
May your standards never waver,
Your torches ever shine,
And in our hearts we'll always bear
Your spirit true and fine.

Features

Becky Ashton:

Becky—blonde, small attractive.

Excelling in whatever she does. The combination of a Mortar Board president and a chorus girl in Junior Minstrels.

Standing on tiptoes . . . . reaching upward . . . . a little girl playing "grown up" . . . . a feather in her cap, a Vogue dress . . . . and she leads as the sophisticated young woman in "First Lady."

Adaptable to any situation . . . . Becky plays her four-year college part with capability, an intricate dance step, leads in college play productions, her own piano interpretations, ... all mingled with a broad smile, the desire to be of service, and to accept her responsibilities!

Becky Ashton

Ruth Atkinson:

Directed energy, hitting the mark squarely and forcefully.

Keen intellect levyed on the subject at hand resulting in worthwhile editorials, sparkling wit shown in gay bull sessions, seriousness in her love of poetry, of tennis, of the smell of a newspaper office, of people. She, with her clear eyes, her wide, frank smile, and her determined stride, overcomes each obstacle and in so doing gains the respect and admiration of the student body.

Ruth Atkinson

Danner Baker:

Femininity . . . . she lives, she looks like, she is the symbol of a typically Southern girl.

Warm brown eyes, long bobbed black wavy hair, perfect features, tiny hands which express capability . . . .

In a hooped skirt dress, a gardenia in her hair, femininely charming she waltzes at Gainesville, she poses for national products, she leads the Village Vamps, she combines approbation with dancing, bridge playing with an intelligent discussion of foreign affairs, a warm and friendly smile with serious and sympathetic brown eyes . . . . Danner, with her beauty spotlights our college campus.

Danner Baker

Dorothy Barr:

Beauty, poise, intelligence . . . . a composite of everything that each college girl would attain plus a ruffling with laughter, head thrown back personality, and you have Dot Barr.

Junior Minstrels . . . . she sings in a low throaty voice . . . .

Odd demonstration . . . . she acts with the nonchalance of a gay nineties hero . . . .

Sauntering on campus she speaks to everyone.

Surrounded by men at a Gainesville dance, gliding to "swing music", her wavy black hair bobbing, her brown eyes glistening . . . .

Everywhere, she's that attractive and remarkable . . . . Dot Barr.

Dorothy Barr

Frances Douglas:

A scientific pattern smoothly woven with threads of idealism.

In her classes she works with learned facts and in so doing she understands the subject at hand. On campus she continues her scientific attitude but it is punctured with idealism. She seems to see beyond the fruitless attempts of the students. Franny weighs the circumstances and then she acts. Success is the result of anything she undertakes . . . . Junior class president, Freshman Advisor, Phi Beta Kappa . . . .

She forgets her success, her mind is clicking, she wants new problems, she sees the ideal goal, and meticulously Franny works toward its accomplishment.

Frances Douglas

Winifred Ewart:

Brisk, blonde, rushing first to one meeting then off to another.

Gray-blue eyes sparkling over a direct pun, interested in everyone and everything that is going on . . . . always going . . . . going from her freshman year as Secretary of College Government Association on and on to President of our Student Body.

She'll not stop . . . . she'll keep going on and on, up and up!

It's Winnie who aspires to do great things . . . . talking seriously, her eyes confident, she thinks of the unattainable, the perfect . . . . she'll acquire it!

Winifred Ewart

Bunny Lowry:

Action . . . . a dynamic force for good, confused with a friendly smile that seems to say "I'll help you . . . . if I may".

Action, in modern dance activities, the skeleton dance at Thanksgiving time, teaching games to small boys, girls, and adults at the recreation center . . . . everywhere, she leads with her spontaneous personality.

Reading poetry, discussing her ideas, ready to listen to the ones of the other person, ready to act in defense of what she believes to be right, willing to go out of her way if it means the chance to help someone . . . .

Bunny, her love of all things great and small . . . . to prove it . . . . her actions!

Bunny Lowry

Mary Emily Parker:

Enthusiasm partnered with the desire to accomplish.

Gay spontaneous laughter showing white, even teeth . . . . she sees a funny note in life, she sings it with her laughter . . . .

Common sense and intellect . . . . Senior Class president, Mortar Board . . . .

Winsome personality, blonde wavy hair . . . . Florida State's representative at the Rhodedendron Festival in North Carolina . . . .

Red, White, and Purple . . . . she leads the Odd Cheer leaders at the Thanksgiving games . . . .

Enthusiastically, she skips through each day . . . . "Serew-ball", the fun loving, blithe, irrestible girl spreading her enthusiasm.

Mary Emily Parker

Eloise Trott:

"Hello," she says it with a Southern drawl, her mouth makes a strange quirked smile, her eyes twinkle, filled with sincerity, ready for laughter, or to be definitely serious if the occasion demands it.

As Chairman of Judiciary she adequately lives up to the trust that the students have in her . . . . fair in all dealings, constantly striving to justly interpret the rules . . . . she has the respect of everyone.

In small groups, on campus, at convocation, the quick puns, keen sense of humor, "actress ability" (aided by a handlebar moustache in Odd demonstration), her portrayal of Eeyore, the old gray donkey . . . .

Always inimitable, she is and will be . . . .

Gay and serious . . . . she plays a vital part in our college drama.

Eloise Trott

Betty Wynn:

She's straightforward, she's original, she wants to be of service.

Beginning her freshman year, Betty has tried to bring variety into the traditional atmosphere.

She's versatile . . . . her personality is filled with strange little corners . . . . her flying lessons at the Tallahassee airport, her love of poetry, doing "case work", debating for Florida State, dancing, bringing interest into the Torch Night ceremony.

Betty seldom conforms to the tried way . . . . she wants new paths, new roads to travel, but she loves old places.

She lives in a burst of ideas . . . . openly friendly, in her disarming manner she asks you to share her fun with her . . . . life is an adventure . . . . Betty takes the rocky roads and the smooth highways . . . . no matter what . . . . and like a good traveler . . . . she smiles.

Appreciation . . . .

Many of you who are not represented here have served our school long and faithfully, and it is to you that we wish to now show our appreciation. Your untiring efforts and insatiable desire to foster the best for our Alma Mater have set a high mark for those who will follow us to meet. Your work has oftentimes brought little reward, and yet we know that the love that you bear for your Alma Mater blots out all desire for acclaim and praise for a service done to her.

You will be remembered in the hearts and annals of the college many years, and the results of the work that you have done will live after our time. To you then, the unknown and little praised workers of the campus, we give our sincerest appreciation, and can only hope that the succeeding college generations will have many such tireless and loving members.

N. S. F. A.

The local chapter of the National Students Federation of America is under the auspices of the Student Senate. Founded through the work of Mary Jeanne McKay in 1936 as a Senate Committee, N. S. F. A. has come to play an important part in student life. N. S. F. A. forums are places of open discussion for students and faculty alike; all students are members of the organization by right of registration for classes, and the faculty are encouraged to attend the forums.

N. S. F. A. deals mainly with campus problems, attempting to bring together student opinion and to work out some solution that can be recommended to Senate, the N. S. F. A. chairman, who is a member of that body.

There is no doubt but that N. S. F. A., in its three years on campus, has done much to iron out the irritating and unimportant details of student life, and to coagulate student opinion into a well-planned and driving force. Its place on campus will continue as a Democratic one, and its part in student life will be of even greater importance in future years.

Esteren is a local honorary club to which Evens are eligible. Its purpose is to strengthen Even friendships and to help carry on the traditions of the Even Classes.

THE PLACE OF ORGANIZATIONS

To many students here organizations, as such, mean little or nothing, to others they are an integral and important phase of college life. To many of those students who take no part in campus organizations, the lack of concern is sincere—their interests simply do not lie in this direction. But there are no students who are not touched by one or more of our college organizations—C.G.A., JUDICIARY, Y.W.C.A., SENATE, and others, affect directly the life of every student.

There is much criticism made by students that our campus is over-organized, but this fault, if it is a fault, is not one of the organizations, but one of the student who cannot say "no". Organizations serve their foremost purpose in helping prepare students for active community life when they leave school—the classroom furnishes the theory for living, and the organization acts as a laboratory for experimentation with this theory. A student learns to choose her activities with care, learns how much she can do and not suffer for it; learns to work under, with, and over people; learns to accept responsibility seriously; and to take power with a smile. To these ends, organizations are carried forward by and for the students themselves as "a laboratory for living."

HONORARIES

Honoraries hold an esteemed place on any campus, particularly so here. They show due recognition for work, for brilliance in scholastic lines, and for achievement in the girls chosen fields. It is of interest to note that most people who attain prominence in campus activities are also members of one or more scholastic honoraries. This tends to show well balanced, deep thinking students as leaders of student life, and is a compliment to the student body in their choice.

It may be well to adopt as the qualifications for all honoraries those used by Mortar Board, for none more truly expresses the true meaning of any organization of this type—in the honoraries particular field—the recognition of "scholarship, leadership, and service."

Sports

BASKETBALL

BASKETBALL

In the annual Thanksgiving Day Game marked by accurate passing and superb teamwork, the Evens defeated the Odds with a score of 38 to 16.

While the excited spectators cheered, Wood and Prian, with the aid of the passing and teamwork of Walton and the other players, dropped ball after ball into the basket. Before the Odds had settled down to better and surer playing their oppenents had stacked up 10 points. Although they made a heroic rally at the beginning of the second quarter, their forwards were so closely guarded by the Even players that it was almost impossible for them to score.

The Even line-up was: Marchesseau, captain, Walton, Lytle, Wood, Prian, Nolan, Raymond, McKay, Wells, Fryer, Parks and Brown.

The Odds: Captain Watson, B. White, Walker, Clements, Corey, Skagseth, Battle, Colburn, N. White, Marwick, Sheldon, Cox and Rehbaum.

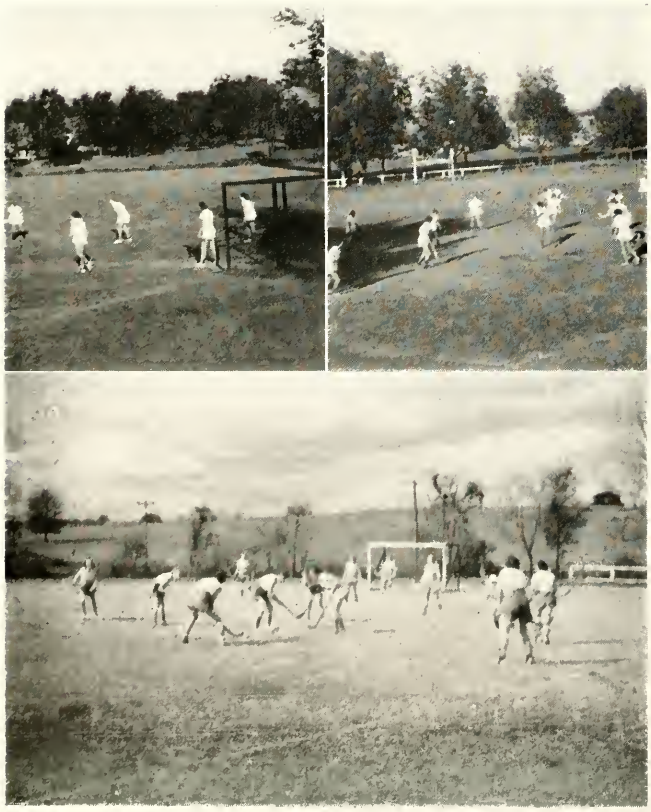
An excited crowd cheered the final Odd-Even showdown in Volleyball, as the Odds edged out the Evens with the close score of 29—26.

The Evens scored the first point of the game with a swift smash shot by Ash. The Odds, however, confident of victory because of their overwhelming successes in class games, retaliated with similar fast playing. Although the Evens held them off to make it an exciting game, the Odds ranked a 14—8 score in their favor at half. During the second half, the Evens held their own, but failed to match the teamwork of the Odds and went down to defeat by the final score of 29—26 with three points spelling victory for the red, white and purple.

Odd team: Captain Williamson, Mobley, Wilson, Lytle, Hunt, Thomas, Mohlnar, Moore, Palmer, Rood and Fleischer.

Evens: Captain Thompson, C. Ash, Medlin, Irvine, Allderdice, Rogers, Pucker, Babbit, E. Ash, Malphurs, Ezzard and Makemson.

HOCKEY



HOCKEY

The Evens chalked up a 2—1 win over the wearers of the Red, White, and Purple in a hard fought hockey game, which was filled with exciting plays and characterized by long runs. Both teams fought hard during the playing periods, and deserve praise for their excellent drives.

The regular class games were merged into another Odd-Even game, in which the Odds had the chance to revenge themselves. And they did. The tri-color team downed the Green and Gold with a return score of 2—1. Paulette Nolan made the only goal for the Evens, while on the opposite team Mary Sue Horton, Cornelia Watson, and Fay Corey helped the Odds exonerate themselves from their former defeat. Two seniors, Betty White and Margaret Walcott, made the actual goals which spelled defeat for the Evens.

SOCCER

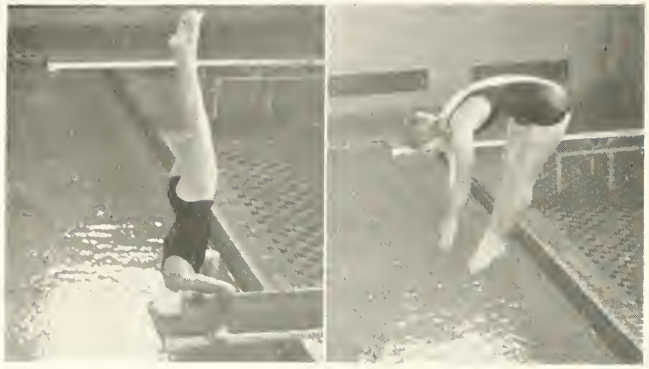
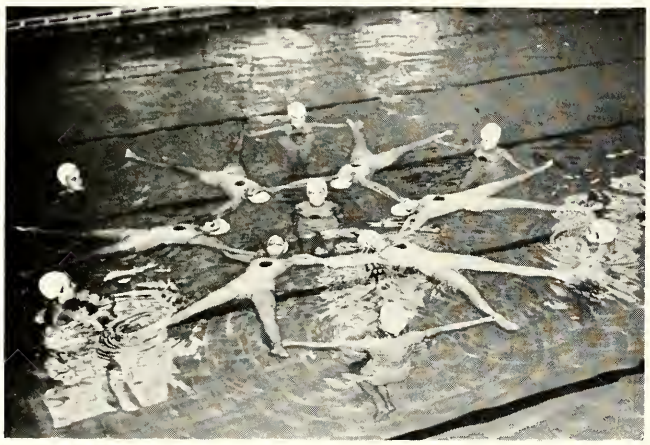
The annual Odd-Even soccer game ended in a scoreless tie. It showed unrewarded effort on the part of both teams as neither the Green and Gold, or the Red, White, and Purple could get into scoring position. The Odds were forced to play a defensive game. Twice, Even supporters crossed their fingers as their team threatened, but the Odds prevented scoring by their excellent passwork. Tie games seemed to be a jinx this year. Despite desperate playing in the second Odd-Even game, neither team gained supremacy. With a final score in black and white of 2—2, we will have to submerge our class loyalties and call our respective soccer teams evenly matched.

SWIMMING





SWIMMING

"Hawaiian Melody," a water pageant sponsored by the Tarpon Club, was a colorful exhibition that showed long hours of practice and preparation. Its locale was Hawaii in the month of June. Before the action began, Elva Melvin, the reader, set the scene for the audience by describing the situation. The lover, played by Jackie Gates, paddled his canoe across the water to the village where he met his sweetheart, while an island maiden danced for them to the music of a guitar and an accordian.

As they watched the reflections in the water, the swimmers, carrying sparklers and candles, formed the milky way, the big dipper, and a six pointed star. A group of intermediate swimmers gave a fine exhibition forming figures with candles. At last the lovers saw the symbol of happiness, the shooting stars, portrayed by Ernestine and Virginia Makemson diving from the springboards with sparklers in their hands. Having viewed this sign of joy, the two lovers departed happily in the canoe amid a gay finale of lights and balloons.

DANCE

DANCE

During Thanksgiving week, a very interesting and beautiful dance exhibition was given. Miss Moore, the Modern Dance instructor, conducted a typical beginners' dance class. These beginners were taught steps which had not formerly been learned while fond parents and students looked on.

The advanced group demonstrated the different dance techniques of four great American interpretive dancers. Bunny Lowery showed the technique of Martha Graham, which is based on contraction and release. Rita Henry and Janet Jewett interpreted Doris Humphrey's principle of opposition with elevation and stretches. A group gave Charles Weidman's distortion of running and leaping while Hanya Holm's lyrical and axial style was demonstrated by Jeanne Webster.

BASEBALL

BASEBALL

History repeated itself this year when the faculty nine trounced out a 14—9 victory over the student team in the annual faculty-student baseball game. The faculty team started action in the first two innings by managing to eke out two runs while the students failed to score.

With the students still on the small side of the score, the faculty came up in the last of the fifth with Moore who swatted out the first homer of the game. The students retaliated in the next frame by sending Hunt to bat as she walloped the ball for another homer.

As the teams went into the ninth frame, the score stood at 12—9 in favor of the faculty. The students failed in their last chance to score, while the faculty chalked up two more runs to end the game.

MISCELLANEOUS

MISCELLANEOUS

Week-ends are filled with extra-curricular activities in an effort to relax the serious, study-laden student mind. Tennis courts and archery ranges are always filled with players, while this year the shuffleboard courts have been dominated by the faculty. The freshmen proved themselves particularly adept at ping-pong, as Jennie Murphree won the ping-pong intra-mural. Week-ends at camp are often filled with such activities as canoeing, out-door cooking, shooting on the rifle range, sleeping, bulling, swimming—when it isn't too cold and even then a few daring souls go in—and sailing.

HISTORY OF FLORIDA STATE COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

Higher education began in Florida in 1823, one year after Florida had been organized as a territory, when two townships of land, known as seminary lands, were reserved by the General Government for the purpose of aiding in the maintenance of two higher educational institutions. Nothing more was done until 1851 when a law was passed authorizing the establishment of two seminaries, one on the east and one on the west side of the Suwannee River. In 1853 the East Seminary was located at Ocala and the West Seminary at Tallahassee.

During the Civil War the West Seminary was a military school for men only. It was from this institution that the cadets went into the Natural Bridge battle in March of 1865. After 1882 the seminary was made co-educational. In 1883 buildings were enlarged, new equipment was purchased, a normal school was established, and the number of the faculty was increased to seven. The enrollment was the largest, there being 74 students, 15 of which were from outside Leon County.

In 1887 Professor George M. Edgar became president of the institution and the whole was reorganized. The military training was discontinued and the scope of the institution was limited to four years of work: two high school and two collegiate.

Student government was unknown. The catalogue said that the "President and faculty will exercise a wholesome supervision over students." Their discipline was described as not harsh but "strict and firm." The title of the catalogue at this time was "Catalogue of the Seminary West of the Suwannee River (The Florida State Classical and Literary College)". The courses offered were: history, philosophy, pedagogies, mathematics, elocution, drawing, Greek, German, natural science, English, French, Latin, commercial science, and high school subjects. And so by 1887 the school that was to become F. S. C. W. was a flourishing co-educational institution.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

Eighteen hundred and ninety-seven was the first year that Dr. A. A. Murphree was president of the institution. Three courses were offered: classical, literary, and scientific, which extended through four academic years and leading to the B.A., B.L., and B.S. degrees respectively.

Two wings had been added to College Hall (present Ad. Bldg.) and it then "had ample capacity for all educational purposes, having 13 well-ventilated study halls for both sexes, a library and reading rooms, classrooms, laboratories, lecture rooms and office for the president and the board of education.

At this time there were no dormitories and students were accommodated in private homes. Chapel was held every morning and all students were required to attend. Church attendance was also compulsory.

The girls of the college organized a Naturalists' Society and the Murphreean Literary Society. There was also a Platonic Debating Society composed of the earnest young gentlemen of the school.

Later an Alumnae Association and an Athletic Association were formed. The purpose of the latter was:

1. The harmonious training of the physique of the members by a system of well-directed exercises.
2. The cultivation of a deeper interest in college athletics among the students.

At this time Mr. P. I. Williams and Mr. Smith were champions of the cause of women's athletics. In fact it was said that they even went so far as to equip a complete hockey team, but Mr. Kellum wouldn't let them have any grass to play on.

Then came the Buckman Bill, which passed the Senate and House of Representatives by only one vote, and consolidated all the small schools of the state into two large ones, the University and the Florida Female College. At the time Florida was unique in providing for equal educational advantages for both sexes. It was the aim of the college to be a university for women in fact if not in name.

The campus of the college was described as being located in the suburbs. And indeed there were negro houses on College Avenue. The old gym had previously been used as a negro church and school, and the cottages used for music studios were negro cottages.

The catalogue printed the same paragraph in regard to supervision and discipline as it did in 1887. Compulsory chapel was still held every morning. The catalogue also said, as regards the social life, "The Y. W. C. A., the two literary societies, and the college fraternities will each in its way help to brighten, strengthen, and sweeten the womanhood of our country."

In 1907 Bryan Hall was built to take the place of West Hall which had burned during the Christmas holidays.

Nineteen hundred and nine was Dr. Conradi's first year at the college. The first Flastacowo was published in that year and the seal bearing the three torches was adopted.

1917

In 1912 Reynolds Hall was opened. It contained accommodations for 133 students besides a play room, now known as "Rec Hall," the Infirmary, a parlor, and a suite for the matron.

Church attendance was compulsory and mail was subject to inspection by the president or matron.

During 1912-13, a system of student government was started under the "Student Government Association." Officers of this organization were supervised by a committee of faculty members. In the records of cases, one case is described in which a girl was restricted to the campus because she wore a skirt split up the side.

In 1915 there were no trees in front, nor any vines on the Ad. Building. The streets were not paved, and the big, wide circle had not been laid out. There was a stepping stone for getting in and out of carriages and buggies in front of the Ad. Building.

At this time the mail was placed in a wire basket in the tiny post office and bookstore at the south end of the main hall. One girl would stand on a chair and call out the names while the rest stood around to grab their letters. It was known as "mail call."

According to the college paper the favorite restriction of student government was campusing. There were endless petty rules. Up to 1926 it was an offense to leave the campus, even in the day time, without signing up. Nobody was allowed to go to town on Saturdays because of the great crowds of negroes that came to trade. A teacher or a matron was required for chaperon for students who wished to go to town at nights. Everyone lined up and marched up and down College Avenue to church on Sunday mornings. Students had regular places to sit in the dining room and a girl was called before Student Government for cutting breakfast three times, according to old records.

The Class of 1916 gave the gates at the College Avenue entrance, and the Classes of 1915 and 1917 presented the fountain in front of the Ad. Building.

During the period from 1916 to 1920 no annual was published because the girls were busy putting all their spare time and money into war work. Between classes they made bandages, canned, pickled, and dried the garden products.

Troops often came through the town. A regiment from Texas came through Hallowe'en and their officers brought them out to the college. They marched through the dining room just at supper time while the girls cheered and sang war songs.

An epidemic of "flu" was raging in the town. Everyone who was well helped nurse and make soup.

The report of the Armistice was celebrated three days before it really came out. That evening the girls marched up and down College Avenue "400 strong" and when they got to Monroe Street, the cheer leader, Gladys Morris Williams, stood up on an old truck in front of the drug store and led them in songs and yells.

During the period from 1921 to 1925 many new buildings were finished. Among these were Science Hall, Broward, and Jennie Murphree.

Camp Flastacowo was made available in 1924, the girls themselves earning a large part of the money for the construction of the building. Tag days were held. One student said she painted a barn to get money for the camp.

In 1925 the first unit of the library was built and an addition to Reynolds was completed.

In 1926 a pipe organ costing $32,000 was installed in the auditorium. This was also the first year in which students were allowed to play cards in the dormitories.

In 1927 the first unit of Gilchrist was ready for use. It was the first year the Fealty ceremony took place instead of the Freshman-Junior wedding.

The Board of Control authorized the building of a new gymnasium.

It was also the first year of the Junior Prom with men for guests and partners in the dancing. The enrollment had increased to 1434 with a faculty of 129, 30 of whom held degrees above that of Masters.

Much remodeling and additional wings were added in this decade. The History Building, now the largest academic building on campus, was built in 1927 and added to in 1931. The Education Building was modernized in 1927. In this same year the Home Management House was built. It is provided for the use of advanced students in home economics, that they may secure experience in the management of a well-ordered home.

A new wing was added to Gilchrist in 1928. In 1929 the Physical Education Building was constructed with the most modern equipment available. It includes lockers, showers, swimming pool, basketball court, remedial room, and offices for the instructors of the department. This same year the library was added to and remodeled. The Green House (1930) furnishes facilities for sprouting and growing plants for the collage campus and farm. In 1931 the Central Heating Plant was built with the view of adding to it later when the demand makes such addition necessary. The Dining Hall was remodeled in 1932. It has four entrances, each connected with residence halls by a covered arcade. The food service department was made as modern as possible. The Westcott Building was rebuilt on the north end in 1936.

By this time students were permitted to go to town during the day without chaperonage and without signing out. The dating restrictions were lessened, freshmen being allowed an average of two per week, sophomores three, juniors four, and seniors unlimited. The enrollment had increased to almost 1800, and the social sororities on campus numbered seventeen.

1939

The enrollment was 1845 with a faculty of 275. Those who were unable to get rooms in the dormitories lived in off-campus houses in which the same restrictions as the dormitories had were carried out. Students were still unable to stay out after 10:30 on week nights and 11:30 on Saturday and Friday nights; freshmen were still unable to have dates unless accompanied by another student of F. S. C. W.; students were still required to sign in and out of dances (at which there was a special permission required before they could stay out until 12:20). Senior Hall was started in 1938. This was a great step in advancement of dating regulations, since those selected to live here are permitted unlimited dating with no restrictions regarding dates or conduct or cutting classes.

The fall of 1938, many new buildings were started. The Student-Alumnae Building, new dining room, infirmary, and dormitory (known as "the new dorm") are as yet incomplete.

The College Government Association promises changes in restrictions next year. Some of the out-dated rules will doubtless be eliminated, and further changes be made to make F. S. C. W. an even better and more modern college.

SENIOR REGRETS

So long, F. S. C.—good-bye to convocation; to term papers; to the dining room; to endless hours in the Reserve room, in classes; to the long trek to the gym; to rainy days and wasted moonlight; to girl-breaks; to Rec; to the Spick and the Sweet Shop; to the vine covered halls; to bull sessions; to traditions; to security within these walls—but most of all—good-bye to our friends—to those, faculty and students alike, who have made these four of our happiest years. It is with tears in our hearts that we say good-bye to you, and though we may never see some of you again, you will be remembered. Time may dim, but cannot blot out entirely, these past years, and we will always have a place in our heart for you who made F. S. C. mean to us what it has.

For, after all, a place means to us what the people in it mean, and the halls, the tall pines, the campus, would not live so for us if you had not been here. Good-bye then to the sorrows—time will blot them out—to the joys—they will never fade—to the friends we have come to know and love so well. Keep the torches burning brightly—keep your banners high—as we will remember them—so, to the faculty, the seniors, those we leave here—hail—and farewell.

APPRECIATION

You, the students, if you like this book, owe a debt of gratitude to many people for its being. I, as editor, owe a debt to many more. To the staffs of years before—to Eileen Robinson and Honey Forth who taught me much of what I know—to Miss West, head of the faculty committee, for her invaluable suggestions and assistance—to Miss Richey and Miss Thrush (the other members of the committee) for the help they gave us—to Mr. Respess and Mr. Thigpen of the engraving company for the long hours they spent planning and executing the details of the book—to the entire of Rose Printing Company's personnel for their fine work and most of all to Charles Rosenberg, without whom the book could never have come out, I owe a debt too deep to be paid by mere words.

To all of you who have given of your time, to Eloise Trott for helping us with the Feature Section vote-counting—to the staff for their diligent, hard work; their effort to get their copy in on time; and their very real interest in the book as a whole, I owe more than I can pay. So may I say simply "Thank you, and I hope the book rewards your effort."

Now to you, Jean, and to the rest of next year's staff—the very best of luck—and please, may I have a copy of your book.

BETTY WYNN.
